Hey, ladies, have the feeling that you're not getting proper credit in the workplace? Well, you're right. And it's been scientifically proven. According to a study conducted by researchers at the University of Delaware, when men speak up about how to better their team, they're seen as potential leaders. When women do it, however, it's not seen the same way, and they don't get considered for promotions or raises as often. Of course, women have known this since they first suggested their pack of cave dwellers try putting wheels on their carts and Orgnel of the Mountaintop took credit for the idea. The study offers no suggestions on how to remedy this, but let's just start with telling male CEOs to stop being such jerks, so that women no longer have to worry so much about what not to say.

WHAT NOT TO SAY TO ACE A JOB

INTERVIEW

- 1 It's not so much a résumé as it is a tone poem.
- 2 Didn't I go out with your daughter?
- 3 I heard you'd hire any idiot.
- 4 What's your policy on employees hooking up?
- 5 My old coworkers were all morons.
- 6 That's a dumb question.
- 7 Nobody really needs a college degree.
- 8 I know I'm good-looking, but I'm smart too.
- 9 My psychic said I should apply for this job.
- 10 Are you kidding about this salary?
