Feminism meets DIY in this fun and feisty book of easy crafts to make and share. With projects like merit badges ("started an all-girl band," "rocked roller derby"), power panties ("no means no"), "burning bra" flame lingerie, feminist hero finger puppets (Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Frida Kahlo, etc.), and even googly-eyed tampon buddies, this book will delight anyone with a crafty, lady-centric sense of humor. The projects are simple and approachable, making them perfect for DIY parties or beginning crafters, and fun sidebars throughout will provide background on (s)heroes of the feminist movement. Author Bonnie Burton is a seasoned crafter and feminist who's excited to spread the word about women's rights through the power of craft!

- Easy, approachable, and fun girl-power crafts are perfect for sassy crafters
- Appeals to the demographic of successful women-centric craft books like Stitch-n-Bitch and Subversive Cross Stitch, but without all the complicated instructions and preamble. This one's for the casual crafter who just wants to create some fun accessories and decorations!
